Our roles within the school

- Helping you take on the 5 Cyber Critters
- Help you talk to trusted adults or ask for help from trusted adults
- Online safety assemblies, lessons, posters, tips and support
- Help everyone stay in the online world

MEET THE CYBER CRITTERS!

The Bi- Diphorous shows a friendly face in the cyber community where you connect, play and talk with friends or people who share similar interest to you.

Before revealing the true menacing side, The Bi-Diphorous may:

- pretend to be someone who they are not or a safer stranger;
- make false promises;
- make you share things about yourself that you are not happy to share; or
- make you feel helpless when online

TAKE ON THE BI-DIPHOROUS

happy right to trick you into clicking on something that will lead you into the deep cyber neighbourhood; stealing information or breaking into your device.

You may come across The Angler when:

- streaming videos,
- clicking on content,
- downloading,
- playing games,
- visiting different websites, apps or platforms; and
- setting up devices.

TAKE ON THE ANGLER

The Info-Eater is always on the lookout for the next meal in the cyber space and in return brings you back false or unreliable information.

The long arms juggle:

- content you have created and share it as the critters' work
- false information bringing misinformation and disinformation to your screen and the swirling teeth nibble on:

- personal information such as login details, full name, payment information
- Positive digital footprints leaving behind the negative digital footprints

TAKE ON THE INFO-EATER

the Selphire loves to swim through online identities, photo or video sharing platforms in the cyber sea of digital media on the hunt for digital media that:

- shares a person's personal information such as location
- can easily be changed using a trick called 'deepfake'
- someone's nan will not be happy to see; and
- trend to scare or worry people

The Selphire then spreads the digital media at the speed of lightning and across different platforms making sure it reaches as many people as possible.

TAKE ON THE SELPHIRE

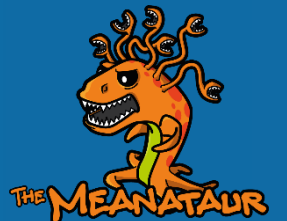

The Meanataur shows their strengths in the cyber home by:

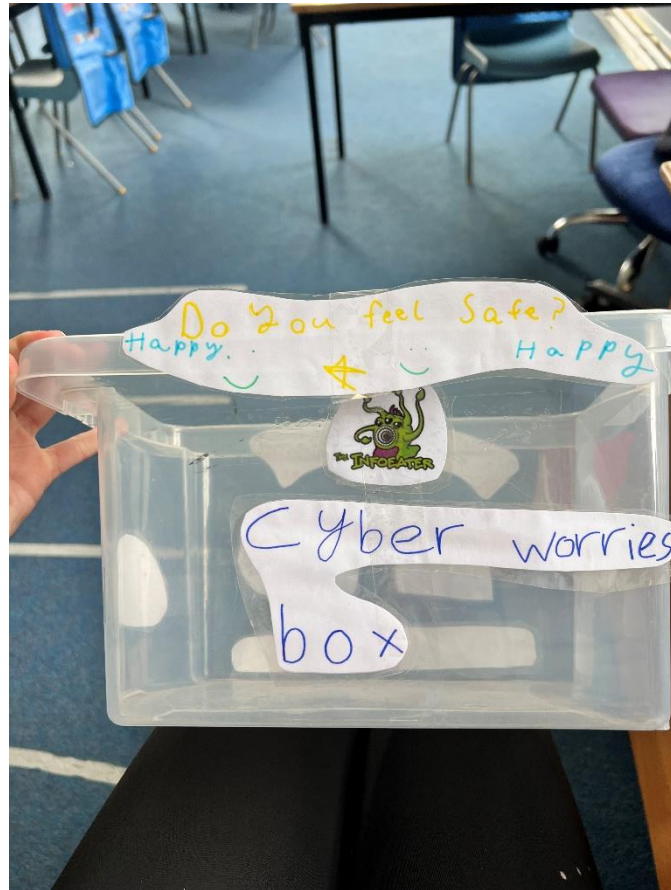

- using the many snappy mouths to say and spread mean things about people
- tricks you into taking part in risky online behaviours
- rawrs threats and content that may you think differently and dislike other people, and
- critters behind mean comments, posts, likes and shares.

The more people join in the nastiness, the stronger
The Meanataur!
